Barron's is a registered trademark of Dow Jones & Company, L.P. All rights reserved. Barron's "America's Top 100 Independent Financial Advisors" base their rankings upon data provided by individual advisers and their firms. Barron's then confirms that data via regulatory databases, cross-checks with securities firms and conversations with individual advisers. The rankings reflect "the volume of assets overseen by the advisers and their teams, revenues generated for the firms and the quality of the advisers' practices." The scoring system assigns a top score of 100 and rates the rest by comparing them with the winner. The formula Barron's used to rank advisers is proprietary. It has three major components: assets managed, revenue produced and quality of practice. Investment returns are not a component of the rankings because an adviser's returns are dictated largely by the risk tolerance of clients. The quality-of-practice component includes an evaluation of each adviser's regulatory record. Information supplied for this ranking mostly came from the advisers. The firm applied for the award and not all advisers applied. The firm did not pay any fees to participate. The award was independently granted. The firm did not have to be a part of any organization to be eligible for the award. Ronald Sadoff was named in 2007, 2008, 2010 and 2011. This ranking should not be construed as a guarantee to any performance or service level, nor should it be construed as a recommendation from current clients.
